**Special Thank you to our members who have made special pledges to reduce the principle on our mortgage. Fr. Wes (Eparchial Economist) from the chancery told Father this week that a couple of the parishes that have backed our loan are writing off the loans to help us. We will see this soon. What a blessing.

Thank you for your support and love for our Parish. We accept credit and debit cards by way The Square. Your receipts are e-mailed. We appreciate your comments.

Special Petitions for Respect Life

God, our heavenly Father, Creator of all human life, we adore You and worship You. You create all people in Your image and likeness. May we, Your people, dedicate ourselves to defending the pre-born, the terminally ill, the disabled and all those threatened by the culture of death from all seen and unseen evil, we pray you hear us and have mercy. R. Lord, have mercy. (3x)

God, our heavenly Father, Author of all life, help us to always respect all human life, from conception to natural death. Let your Most Holy Spirit enlighten the minds and open the hearts of those who do not fully respect all human life according to Your will. Reveal Your loving presence to expectant mothers who experience fear, doubt, isolation and confusion. Lighten their burdens. Grant them guidance, reassurance and peace by Your grace, we pray you hear us and have mercy. R. Lord, have mercy. (3x)

We also pray for those who are despondent because of age or illness; especially for those tempted to end their lives; for all who are alone and afraid: for those who sit on death row; for single mothers feeling abandoned by all: that our heavenly Father would grant them the patient endurance to do His will, we pray You, hear us and graciously have mercy. R. Lord, have mercy. (3x)

Who Art in Heaven By St. Gregory of Nyssa

On the Lord's Prayer, 2 (PG 44, 1144)

These words I think have a very deep meaning. They remind us of the homeland we have abandoned, of the citizenship we have lost. In the parable of the young man who left his house, went off the rails and was reduced to living with pigs, the Word of God shows us human wretchedness. That young man did not find his one-time happiness again until he had realized his moral degradation, had looked into his own heart and had pronounced the words of confession. These words almost agree with the Lord's Prayer, because the prodigal son says: 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you.' [Luke 15:21] He would not confess himself to be a sinner against heaven if he were not convinced that the homeland he had left at the time of his going astray were not in actual fact heaven. By this confession of his he makes himself worthy once again to stand in the presence of his father who runs towards him, embraces him, and kisses him. The conclusion is this. To return to heaven there is only one route and that is to admit one's sinfulness and seek to avoid it. To make the decision to avoid it is already to be perfecting one's likeness to God.*****

THE WASTREL SON: By Archimandrite Ephrem

As familiar, perhaps as the "Prodigal Son" - to the extent that there are people who think "prodigal" means something to do with being a long lost son whose return is welcome! Interesting that he is a wastrel, a spendthrift, a young man who marches off into the world with his half of the inheritance from his father in his pocket or in his bank account, and then is heard no more of until he is reduced to the rock bottom of his existence, and has nowhere to turn .... nowhere save home.

He becomes the true model of repentance. metanoia , the mind-shift, conversion the reversal, the turning, the return. Jewish tradition and Eastern tradition coincide in seeing the turning as a whole lifetime's work. We say of a holy monk who has died "He truly repented!" And where does the journey home start? In the desolation I have made of my own life:

the place where I find myself, empty-handed, impoverished, my talents squandered, my opportunities lost... and home long forgotten. And in that moment of painful self-discovery I also discover what home is, what it is to have parents to turn to. No doubt the road from home to Desolation Comer was littered with little acts of repentance, moments of self-accusation, flickering good intentions, hours of remorse (washed down with the sweet wines of oblivion...) But only with nowhere else to turn does the wastrel set out for home. Repentance is his last resort - and still his father kills the fatted calf to welcome him, sets a ring on his finger, organizes a feast, glows with joy until the solid, reliable, sensible brother who has stayed at home working at his father's side protests ... and his protest is just... but his father's response pours from his heart "My son was dead and he is alive!" Justice and fairness are lost in grace and joy. And all the wastrel did was go home... On Luke XV 12, two comments from the Fathers...John Chrysostom says: NOW the Scripture says that the father divided equally between his two sons his substance, that is, the knowledge of good and evil. which is a true and everlasting possession to the soul that uses it well. The substance of reason which flows from God to men at their earliest birth, is given equally to all who come into this world, but after the intercourse that follows, each one is found to possess more or less of the substance; since one believing that which he has received to be from his father, preserves it as his patrimony, another abuses it as something that may be wasted away, by the liberty of his own possession. But the freedom of will is shewn in that the father neither kept back the son who wished to depart, nor forced the other to go that desired to remain, lest he should seem rather the author of the evil that followed. But the youngest son went afar off, not by changing his place, but by turning aside his heart. Hence it follows, He took a journey into afar country. Ambrose says. on the same verse:

For what is more afar off than to depart from one's self; to be separate not by country but by habits. For he who severs himself from Christ is an exile from his country, and a citizen of this world. Fitly then does he waste his patrimony who departs from the Church.
